

LIBERTY, CASEY COUNTY.

—About 11 o'clock last night, blind Calvin Taylor, footsore and broken down, arrived at the Exchange Hotel in this place. He had been taken to Louisville several weeks ago charged with retailing liquor unlawfully. The Government took compassion on his unfortunate condition and turned him loose.

—It is reported that the sly archer, cupid, is directing arrows in direction of the heart of our old companion in arms, Maj. Geo. W. Drye, who used to gallantly lead charges in many a bloody contest in the unpleasantness some years ago. It is curious how one who could face powder and smoke so unflinchingly would surrender so easily to the adroit little imp.

—Deputy Jailor, W. W. Brown, has at last declared himself as a candidate for jailer at the November election. It was thought for awhile that the office would go begging, but every now and then a candidate is coming out. It is also reported that Jesse Dooley, of the Yosemite section, is a candidate for that office. Mr. John W. Wilkinson has lately come out on the democratic side. As for candidates for other offices they are too numerous to mention. Some of them will be certainly left in the future.

—We have recently received a copy of two of the Winfield (Kansas) Daily Courier, from which we make the following extract: The encampment at Newton acted on Capt. Fishback's resolution requesting the delegates to the National encampment to use their efforts to have the next National Encampment held at Louisville, Ky., his old home, by instructing the delegates to vote to put the encampment South of Mason and Dixon's line. The Captain made a strong plea for his old home. Captain J. Brent Fishback is well known in Central Kentucky, having once resided in Pulaski county. He was a gallant officer in Wofford's Cavalry, and has many friends among the survivors of that regiment. He resided some years in Louisville before emigrating to Kansas. His old comrades in arms will be much pleased to learn that he is using his influence to have the annual meeting of the G. A. R. in his native State.

WILLIAMSBURG, WHITLEY COUNTY.

—Mat Pennington was in London last week.

—Miss Bingham music class will give a musical next Friday evening.

—The Corbin Enterprise will be published again, the next copy will be issued the 23rd.

—There will be a box supper at Watts creek school house for the benefit of the new Baptist church next Saturday night.

—The county is full of republican candidates for the county offices and among them are two colored men Henry W. Bond for County clerk and Clin Bradford for jailer.

—R. S. Crawford spent Saturday and Sunday in Pine Knot. C. W. Lester is in Wayne county attending court. J. N. Sharp has gone to Richmond on business this week.

—Last Friday evening the young ladies of the Academy gave a bonn bag drill. They were well trained and drilled like soldiers. After the drill the young people had a social.

—There is a prospect for Williamburg having electric lights soon; some of our energetic citizens are at work on the plan and we are very much in hopes they will be able to put it through.

—The Hexameter Society of the Institute gave a literary entertainment last Friday evening in the chapel at the Institute. A large crowd was out to hear the young people and were well repaid for the time spent in going.

—Mrs. J. L. Gentry is in Louisville this week. Judge Stinson is having a neat frame cottage erected on his lot. Mr. J. A. Cooley is building a new brick residence near the Academy. Mr. Chas. Curd, who is learning the drug business with McRoberts, of Stanford, is at home on a visit.

—Two colored men were out fishing in a boat last week and carelessly got too near the mill dam and not knowing how to manage a boat very well went over. After considerable hard work they succeeded in getting out of the boat but it was a narrow escape.

—Miss Nell Freeman and Miss Chrus Gatliff will leave in a few days for Ashville, N. C. to spend several weeks. Dr. W. Murphy has gone to Texas to select a home where he will move shortly on account of his wife's health. Andy Meadows went to Cincinnati Tuesday. Wm. Perkins went to Louisville Tuesday night to purchase a spring stock of goods for Mahan & Co.

—The manager of the Chicago Telephone Exchange has ordered that the girls in his employ shall wear skirts that will clear the floor by three inches.

—An attempt will be made in the House on Monday to pass the bill for the admission of New Mexico as a State. The republicans will compel the democrats to have a quorum present.

Be sure and examine the Cooley Creamer and buy no other.

LANCASTER, CARRARD COUNTY.

—Mr. Jas. I. Hamilton takes charge of the postoffice to night, Thursday. He will retain Deputy Eph. Brown for awhile. The office will be kept where it is for the present.

—The fire Wednesday afternoon is another proof of the need of water works. It is nearly impossible to pull the chemical engine by hand to the suburbs of town, and when it is gotten there the firemen are so exhausted they can not do efficient work. Besides the old engine gun is about worn out and very seldom works at all.

—The fire alarm again created an excitement on Wednesday afternoon. The roof of Mrs. Clay Kaufman's residence on Danville Ave. caught from sparks from the kitchen flue and before the flames could be extinguished, a large hole was burned in the roof. The damage will be small and is fully covered by insurance.

—COURT NOTES.—George Huffman, the white boy charged with outraging his 6 year-old niece, was given 8 years in the penitentiary. Simeon Engelman, colored, confessed to breaking into a store and was sent up for three years. The case against Ed Doty for killing Charley White, was continued until August court. Teddy Pascoe was fined $10 in two cases for selling "green frog" smoking tobacco and cigarette paper to a person under 16 years of age. Henry Reddick, colored, was fined $50 for malicious cutting. He is the one that cut another negro back of the Mason Hotel last fall. Dwight Mitchell, unlawful shooting, forfeited bond. John Smith, selling whisky, $25. O. P. Tindor, for furnishing liquor to minor, $50. A large number of cases for smaller offenses have been disposed of and the docket will be pretty well cleaned up at this term. Mr. Baylor Jennings is foreman of the grand jury.

—Circuit court is progressing finely. Judge Sandley is dispatching business rapidly and in a manner that gives general satisfaction. His charge to the grand jury was lucid and forcible; his remarks in regard to the enforcement of the laws for the protection of game receiving marked attention. He gave many excellent reasons why these laws should be enforced and the original manner in which he treated the subject will awaken an interest in the minds of the people that will doubtless result in great good. The fish and birds must be protected from the depredations of seines, dynamite and pot hunters. John Sam Oweley, Jr., the able and popular young Commonwealth's attorney, is discharging his duties in a manner highly creditable to himself and he has won the admiration and esteem of the people generally.

CRAB ORCHARD.

(DELAID LETTER.)

—Rev. Ben Helm, of Stanford, has been working hard in our midst and several have united with the Christian and Baptist churches. We appreciate his efforts in behalf of our people. He has anointed several and Mr. Donegan who was lying at death's door was healed and is now out of a sick bed testifying to God's goodness, and power to raise those who trust him. He desires to thank the good people of town for their kindness to him while on a sick bed.

—Saturday's victory over the flesh and the devil, has filled our people with joy and many prayers of thankfulness have ascended the great white throne for our deliverance. To Mrs. D. G. Slaughter is due the praise of all our people for stirring them up to this movement. She has "braved the lion in his den" and worked untiringly, and accepted meekly, all the harsh things said of her for the accomplishment of her design and deserves more than a small space here alone to say of her. Our people desire to thank Rev. Helm, Lucien Lasley, Dr. Doores and others for their great work in our behalf. Mr. Lasley has been a steady worker wherever duty called him. To the young men of town is due great praise and we would like to have space to mention everyone by name but we must Sam Magee who did not even take time to eat his dinner. Will Hansford, Dr. Willie Edmiston and Joe Magee also worked steadily and faithfully.

T. A. BRADLEY, of Danville, desires everyone to call at Farris & Hardin's grocery and examine the Cooley Creamer. Everyone guaranteed.

A Milton Friends.

A friend in need is a friend indeed, and not less than one million have found just such a friend in Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. If you have never used this great Cough Medicine, one trial will convince you that it has wonderful curative powers in all diseases of the Throat, Chest and Lungs. Each bottle is guaranteed to do all that is claimed or money will be refunded. Trial bottles free at A. R. Penny's drug store. Large bottles 50c and $1.

Four Big Successes.

Having the needed merit to more than make good all the advertising claimed for them, the following four remedies have reached a phenomenal sale. Dr. King's New Discovery, for consumption, Coughs and Colds, each bottle guaranteed. Electric Bitters, each bottle for Liver Stomach and Kidneys. Buckle's Arnica Salve, the best in the world, and Dr. King's New Life Pills, which are a perfect pill. All these remedies are guaranteed to do just what is claimed for them and the dealer whose name is attached herewith will be glad to tell you more of them. Sold at A. R. Penny's Drug Store.

MIDDLEBURG, CASEY COUNTY.

—Mrs. Lucinda Latham, wife of Elijah Latham, died on the 2nd inst. of consumption.

—Mr. Elisha Gifford, who lost his house by fire, had failed to renew his insurance, which expired but a few days before.

—W. G. Miller will move to his new residence this week. Mr. George Sluder, who moved to Indiana some two years ago, has returned.

—The editor got his "death's doings" and "matrimonial matters" somewhat mixed in Tuesday's issue, though as his paper is always so nearly correct, this little matter should not be charged up to him as a crime.

—Misses Mattie Elliott and Mayne Farris, of Somerset, are visiting Miss Carrie Cloyd. Mr. E. P. Woods, of Lincoln, came down last week to see his uncle E. S. Fisher. V. R. Coleman is furnishing news items from this place to the Mountain Echo. Nelson Witcher made a flying visit to Lexington last week. Robt. Hall returned Saturday from a visit to his parents in Pulaski county.

—Mr. H. D. Gifford, our efficient county surveyor, sold his property at public auction Thursday, and will start at once to Texas. Mr. Gifford is one of our best citizens, and will be sadly missed especially by the Christian church, of which he was a most zealous member and one of the best informed members of that congregation. The community regrets very much to give him up.

—It was reported here some days ago and we have not heard it contradicted, that J. F. Allstott, of Big South Rolling Fork, had announced himself a candidate for County Clerk, subject to the republican primary Aug. 4th. We are not personally acquainted with Allstott, but he is said to be a monstrous clever man, besides having plenty of money. So he may be in it when the "tug of war" comes, though we are betting two to one on Dr. J. C. Dye.

—Supt. J. W. Hoskins was with us lately condemning old dilapidated school houses and ordering new ones built. Mr. Hoskins is well posted as to his duty, and never fails to do it. He has caused a number of new houses he built since assuming the duties of his office, and there are several now being erected. Surely no officer in the county deserves more praise than Hoskins, who, on retiring from office will carry with him the respect of everybody, especially that of the teachers who have worked under him during his administration of the educational affairs of the county.

All signs, except Preparator Foster's forecasts, point to an early spring. The straits between the great northern lakes have opened to navigation earlier this year than any of the past eleven years; and the oldest inhabitant can not recall a milder-mannered March than this one has so far proven, despite the prophecy that it would be worse than any of its predecessors. As God tempered the winter winds to the unsheltered sheep, so the new born lambs may confidently count upon a continuation of the same providential kindness until they are ready for market. But if a wicked and perverse generation would have still another sign of the stability of this somewhat too previous ethereal mildness, we can point with confidence to the fact that old Farmer Simon Bolivar Buckner has already pitched his field and garden crops, though he thinks it too soon to sow senatorial aspirations.—Louisville Times.

QUEEN AND CRESCENT ROUTE.—"Glimpses of the World's Fair." A selection of 192 Gems of the White City seen through the Camera. This handsome volume containing 192 photographic half-tone views of the entire Exposition, showing all main buildings, all state and territorial buildings, all foreign buildings, grounds, statuary, lagoons, and about 40 views of the great Midway Plaisance, will be sent to any address on receipt of 25 cents and five cents for postage. This book has been issued by the greatest of Southern railroads—the Queen & Crescent Route—and its excellence is without a flaw. A most delightful collection of exquisite views, in a small and convenient-sized book. Many such collections are large and cumbersome. Send your address and 30 cents to W. O. Rinearson, General Passenger Agent, Cincinnati, O.

"Perhaps you would not think so, but a very large proportion of diseases in New York comes from carelessness about catching cold," says Dr. Syrus Edson. "It is such a simple thing, and so common that very few people, unless it is a case of pneumonia, pay any attention to cold. New York is one of the healthiest places on the Atlantic Coast and yet there are a great many cases of catarrh and consumption which have their origin in this neglect of the simplest precaution of every day life. The most sensible advice is when you have one get rid of it as soon as possible. By all means do not neglect it." Dr. Edson does not tell you how to cure a cold but we will. Take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It will relieve the lungs, aid expectoration, open the secretions and soon effect a permanent cure. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Dr. S. G. Hocker, druggist.

A severe rheumatic pain in the left shoulder had troubled Mr. J. H. Loper, a well known druggist of Des Moines, Iowa, for over six months. At times the pain was so severe that he could not lift anything. With all he could do he could not get rid of it until he applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm. "I only made three applications of it," he says, "and he recommends it to persons similarly afflicted. It is for sale by Dr. S. G. Hocker, druggist."

MATRIMONIAL MATTERS.

—At a wedding celebration in Brooklyn there were 24 guests, and 17 of them brought presents of clothes pins to the happy couple.

—There are deep, dark hints that a young Stanford lawyer is to become a Benedict before the May flowers bloom, but he denies it.

—A Hardin county farmer says that the devil owed him a debt and is paying him in son-in-laws. His sixth daughter was married Thursday and he has five more left.

—The engagement of Minister Thurston, Hawaiian representative at Washington, and Miss Harriet Potter is announced. She was cashier at the Hawaiian exhibit at the mid winter fair.

—Mr. Ansel Baugh entered into his third matrimonial alliance this week. Mrs. Nannie Farmer, a comely widow of 31, being the fortunate lady. The groom is bearing down on three score and ten.

—Fred Gebhardt, the wealthy New Yorker, and Miss Louise Morris were married in Baltimore Wednesday. Fred used to rush Lily Langtry, the faded Jersey beauty, but he stopped that long ago.

—In Manitoba there are 16,178 bachelors who have sent word that they regard celibacy as a failure, and that 16,178 homes and hearts are ready for a corresponding number of women ungallantly deemed "superfluous" in this country. Now is a chance for the old maids.

CHURCH AFFAIRS.

—Elder W. L. Williams will preach at the Christian church Sunday on "Prohibition from a Scriptural Standpoint."

—Sam Small has scooped in 50 Hopkinsville sinners thus far and will continue his meeting until Sunday.

—In Covington, Rev. Dr. Blackburn has said, during his four years as pastor of First Presbyterian church, 320 new members.

—A telegram from Bishop T. U. Dudley stated that it was impossible for him to fill his appointment at the college chapel last night.

—There will be 19 full graduates in the Baptist Theological Seminary at Louisville and they were entertained Tuesday night by Dr. Broadbent.

—Rev. W. T. Poynter, of Shelbyville, has sent out a circular letter to ministers of his denomination, Methodist, South, asking their opinion on the question of organic union with the Methodist church and on the removal of the time limit from the pastorate.

—Mrs. Elliott F. Shepard is planning the erection of a church near her country home on the Hudson as a memorial of her husband. It is to be beautiful in architecture and will be the most costly church edifice ever erected by one individual in the United States.

—W. W. Wallace has sold his farm of 120 acres, near Danville, on the Shaker-town pike to Jno. Hingely, at $100, or $12,000. Mr. Wallace gave $80 per acre for the place, but since purchasing it has put upwards of $3,400 in improvements upon it.

—The Methodist are making extensive preparations for the series of special services to begin at the Methodist church Sunday. Rev. Vaught, of Harrodsburg, and Prof. Fogg, the lay evangelist, who will have charge of the choir, have been very successful in conducting such meetings.

—Peter T. Gentry, one of the oldest residents and largest land owners in the county, died Monday night of old age in his 75 year. He was a native of Madison county. P. T. Gentry, Jr., F. M. Gentry, of New Orleans; B. F. Gentry, of Lexington; Richard, William C. and Thomas B. Miss Julia K. Gentry and Mrs. A. J. Caldwell, of Danville, are his children, who survive him.

—In a sermon the other day, Bishop Dudley, of the Episcopal church, said: Life, eternal life, is only obtained by union with Christ. Therein our religion differs from all others. We saw that the first step was belief, faith; believe the Gospel that God loves men, and sent His son to show His love. The next step is baptism. I will not spend a moment in discussing modes of baptism. I had as soon baptize a man in an ocean as in a teaspoonful of water. But I want to say first of all that baptism is necessary to unite us with Christ. Remember, regeneration is one thing; conversion is another. I have been converted many times; whenever I go wrong and turn back I am converted. One word more, we are baptized into membership—fellowship, communion, but bear in mind that back of all is faith and repentance. What is repentance? Forsaking sin. I beseech you in Jesus' name as you believe, be baptized into His union; enter the atmosphere of life, so that when the end comes on earth you shall enter eternal life."

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became a Girl, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

W. P. WALTON.

6 OR 8 PAGES.
EVERY FRIDAY.

THERE was a scene not down on the bills, as the theatrical people say, in the Pollard-Breckinridge case, Tuesday. Johnson, the big, burly lawyer for the plaintiff, had scored a certain Kentucky lawyer in the case, charging him with chicanery, and other such awful things. Col. Shelby, Breckinridge's law partner, thinking that the remarks were intended for him endeavored to reply to them, but the judge declined to hear him and adjourned court. This added injury to insult and the Kentucky blood in the little bantam's veins boiled over and attacking himself where Johnson was sure to pass in leaving the court-room, Shelby accosted him with: "You have insulted me, sir?" "Well" was Johnson's reply in a peculiarly aggravating tone, whereupon the 115 pounder jumped up and planted his little fist in the big man's face, as he tried to get away. Col. Breckinridge and Calderon Carlisle, one of Miss Pollard's counsel, rushed forward to stop the row, when Desha Breckinridge, the fiery son of the defendant, thinking that an assault was being made on his father, dealt Carlisle a blow. The belliffs ran forward and soon smoothed out war's wrinkled front. There were speculations on the probability of the men being sent to jail for contempt, but Judge Bradley said that the fracas having occurred after the adjournment of his court he could take no cognizance of it, though he embraced the opportunity to deliver a mild lecture to the belligerents and to request them to say whether they had guns on their person or not. Col. Shelby said he never carried one in his life and all the other of the defendant's lawyers asserted that they were unarmed till Phil Thompson, said "as I am the only one left I enter a disclaimer also," but we suspect the statement had a string tied to it. There has been no new developments in the case and it was thought that all the evidence for the plaintiff would have been given by noon yesterday, when, as the Louisville Times expresses it, Col. Breckinridge was to be placed upon the stand to swear out of the lies he told Madge Pollard when he repeatedly swore to marry her, though he was already wedded to another and preparing to wed that other some more. About half of the Congressmen have applied for admission to hear him testify and the public business will be brought to a stand still. Miss Pollard seems to have made out her case, but no matter what is the outcome, the defendant is dead politically and damned in every way forever.

The agony is over and Col. George Matthew Adams will be pension agent for Kentucky. If he fill the office as well as our kinsman, Dr. Walton, then he and his friends will have cause for congratulation and "Old Matt" will have scored another triumph for faithfulness to a public trust. He has held a great many offices in his time of 57 years. Four terms in Congress, one as clerk of the body, four years as secretary of the State of Kentucky, and goodness knows how many more, ought it seems to have satisfied the political ambition of an ordinary man, but once in office always in office is the motto of those who aspire to such flesh pots, and the colonel is no exception to the rule. The Harboursville man was born under a lucky star and with a gold spoon in his mouth.

Miss Pollard understands the value of stage effects. While a witness was telling about seeing one of her children's body at the undertakers, she apparently grew so full of emotion that unable to contain herself longer, she burst forth in sobs and had to be taken from the court-room. As she passed the jury box she fell in a faint and like to have landed in the arms of one of the jurors. The effect on the jury seems to have been what was intended and the fair plaintiff scored a point. Her preparation for the stage goes bravely on.

One of the sins of commission of the late Legislature is the passage of the husband and wife bill, increasing the property rights of the latter and removing the disabilities of coverture. It may work all right but we fear it will be a never ending cause of strife between men and their wives who have any property to quarrel over.

BUD FARRIS stole Lawrence Parsons' bicycle at Louisville and got six years in the penitentiary at the hands of a jury. A drunken councilman killed a man and is now out on bail pending an application for a new trial, in the same city, after being let off with one year in jail and a fine of $1,000. Truly there is something very rotten in the laws of Denmark.

The Louisville Times speaks of the Interior Journal as the organ of the "drys," but the "drys" don't seem to think so. The fact is, this paper is the organ of nothing but pure and undefiled religion and its synonym, democracy.

WHEN the members of the long drawn out Legislature came marching home, after a session prolonged to 500 days or more, the verdict of an outraged constituency rung in their ears, "Depart, ye workers of iniquity. We never knew you." But few had the temerity to ask to be returned to Frankfort and fewer still were chosen to do so. A better set of men were elected and they have just completed their work in the constitutional limit of 60 days, and gone to their homes to receive the well deserved plaudit, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant." As has been stated, it was a Legislature without a faction and without a lobby, and its whole course has been conducted to the elevation in the public mind of such bodies, which for years has been below par. Of course the body did some things that it ought not to have done and left undone some things that it ought to have done, but their constituents will forgive both their sins of omission and commission, proud to have had one decent Legislature in a lifetime. Good boys. Come home and strike us for something better.

A SCENE or less of impracticable malcontents met at Pittsburgh, Pa., Wednesday and launched a new political party upon an inoffending public, under the high sounding name of the Progressive People's party. It is to be hoped, however that this is the last we shall hear of it.

THE Legislature paid the preachers who prayed for it $350, which is a pretty steep sum, but if it was through the efficacy of their petitions that the body was kept from grievous sins, the money was well spent.

MT. VERNON, ROCKCASTLE COUNTY.

—One 200-acre peach orchard in Georgia has returned the owner a profit of $125,000 in five years, and one season the crop was a failure.
—FOR SALE CHEAP.—Bay mare, 5 years old, 15 hands high, good saddle and buggy mare. Write Wm. Hayward, Agt. L. & N. R. R., London, Ky.
—A Lewis county nurseryman has a twenty acre crab apple orchard from which he made and sold 250 barrels of cider last year. It is not stated how many headaches he is responsible for.
—Ex-Senator John J. Ingalls of Kansas emphatically denies the published report that he contemplates entering the ministry.

ADDITIONAL CITY AND VICINITY.

HANDSOME line of queenware at Farris & Hardin's.

MR. E. G. WALKER has sold to John A. Chappell his house and lot on East Main Street for $700.

THE craps case was not reached yesterday. The penalty for playing the game is $50 to $100 fine.

GRANT TRICE and Annie Givens were lodged in jail Wednesday charged with breaking into the store of Jim Jones at McKinney. All are negroes.

WE have just received one more lot those fine sample shoes, worth $3.50 per pair, to be sold at the same price, $1.98. This is positively your last chance for such bargains. B. F. Jones & Son.

FINED.—Craig Camden, for a misdemeanor, was fined $14 and sent to jail in default of payment. John Keifer, on a similar charge, paid the $5 assessed against him and went his way rejoicing.

ATTENTION is called to the spring advertisement of H. F. Hillenmeyer, the well-known nurseryman of Lexington. He is thoroughly reliable, as his many patrons in this section of country will bear testimony.

COME see our overcoats, reduced to $3.50; our men's goesamer shoes at $1.50; our full stock brogan $1; our new stock of boys' shirt waists; our new line of spring wraps; our J. B. and P. D. corsets. Hughes & Tate.

MR. C. S. BAKER, agent for the American Book Co., tells us that he has supplied 15 counties with the maps, charts, &c., for school purposes, as now provided by law, at an average of $1,000. To equip the Lincoln county school houses $1,500 were required.

THE prettiest as well as one of the most convenient cottages in town is the one that Mr. A. R. Penny has about completed on the lot in front of his residence and which will be occupied by Dr. W. B. Penny. It is a very decided improvement to Lancaster Street.

THE nicest and largest cake of butter ever sent to this office has been received from Mrs. J. E. Carson, whose husband's herd of Jersey cows has an inter-State reputation. It is beautiful in color and superior in flavor. Our thanks are very cordially extended for the remembrance.

ALL INVITED TO COME HEAR.—I will deliver an address on Local Option at the court-house on Friday evening at 8 o'clock. Gentlemen and ladies, cranks and lawyers, doctors, farmers, merchants, mechanics, officials, all classes, black and white, are respectfully invited. Jos. Ballou.

LAND SALES.—MR. THOMAS S. PARSONS has sold to J. L. Randall, of Laurel, his farm of 28 acres situated on the Crab Orchard pike, three miles from town and known as the "House that Jack Built," for $1,200. Mr. Parsons bought of Col. W. H. Dudderar his house and lot in Rowland for $800.

FLOWERS.—Mrs. Steele Bailey has made an arrangement with a leading florist to fill orders for cut flowers at reduced rates. Between the first and the 15th of April she will bring on some rich and rare flowers and sell them cheaper than they can be bought anywhere by those who do not buy by wholesale.

THE number of prisoners in the jail here was increased to 22 Wednesday, 8 crackshooters, of the colored persuasion, and 4 others being incarcerated on that day. Constable Thomas Jefferson Benedict arrested the 8 crackshooters near the Dix River bridge and drove them to town like hogs, without assistance.

THE long spell of beautiful weather was temporarily ended yesterday in rain, but the signal service promises fair and cooler weather to day. March rarely ever gave us such nice weather before. There has been scarcely any wind and the days have been frequently as fine as they are in May. A great deal of gardening has been done.

THERE was another meeting of the faithful at the court-house Wednesday. A Winchester orator was down as the drawing card, but he failed to materialize and the local talent gladly accepted the chance to shoot at the rum sellers with their mouths. It is wonderful how the interest in such addresses never seems to lag. The same crowd will listen to the same old song and dance seven days in the week and then cry because the weeks are no longer. May they not permit their zeal to cool, but continue their warfare on the nefarious traffic ever after prohibition has been voted at the polls.

QUITE a large number of Hustonvillians were here yesterday to resist the granting of liquor license to W. S. Drye, successor to Weatherford & Brown. They presented a petition to the judge signed by 60 voters, but afterwards agreed that five should be stricken from it. According to them there are 101 voters in town and according to Drye there are 109. Col. Welch represented the applicant and Messrs. J. B. Paxton and P. M. McRoberts the protestants, and after a weary and tedious examination into whether certain persons were entitled to vote in town, it was found at 4 o'clock that the protestants had by one vote and the license was refused.

FOR RENT.—House that I lived in, adjoining Mrs. Fannie Green's. Mrs. Mary Engleman, Habbie.

R. LEE METCALF the fakir and would be actor, still languishes in the Lexington jail unable to give $500 bail for obtaining money under false pretenses.

THE evening of March 23rd has been fixed for the operatic performance for the benefit of Christian College, Hustonville. It will be given in the Christian church there.

—The post-office at Malcom, Clay county, Ky., will be discontinued after March 31.

—The industrial situation in the Pittsburgh district is improving steadily. About 75 per cent. of the operatives are at work in the Pittsburgh mills, and comparatively few of the unemployed are dependent upon charity.

GILT: EDGE: 261.

REGISTERED.

BY SECOND JEWEL 48.

Dam by old Stonewall Jackson.

This fancy saddle stallion will make the season of 1894 at our stable 1/4 mile from Millersville, Lincoln county, Ky., on the Stanford and Millersville pike. Owing to the scarcity of money, we will stand him.

At $10 to insure a Living Colt.

Money due when the colt comes or mare parted with. Mares grazed or fed at reasonable prices. Not responsible for accidents should any occur. Gilt Edge is a beautiful red coral, heavy mane and tail, 16 hands high, high, was foaled Sept. 6, 1890 and is a perfect saddle horse.

Gilt Edge was shown as a 3 year old and took the respective premium at Kirksville and Danville and in his own right at Harrodsburg. Those who want to breed to a good saddle stallion are cordially invited to look at our horse and see him move.

He was sired by Second Jewel, he by Cunningham's Jewel, he by old Washington Denmark, he by old Mamie by McChesley's Halcorn. Second dam by Wells' Crusader, his dam by Stonewall Jackson, he by Washington Denmark, he by Black Denmark, his dam by a seller he by Old Whip, and dam a Rocky Mountain mare.

MADISON SANDIDGE & SON,

Millersville, Ky.

EAGLE: BIRD.

Winner of the $500 Stake at Lexington.

Winner of Sweepstake Premium at Lexington.

Winner of Aged Premium and Sweepstakes at Paris.

Won Second Money in $500 Stakes at Versailles.

Won Third Money in $400 Stakes at Nicholasville.

Won Fourth Money in $300 Stakes at Stanford.

Won the $500 Consolation Prize at Danville.

Eagle Bird is a beautiful brown with small star, stands over 16 hands high, has flowing mane and heavy tail.

Eagle Bird was sired by the great King Eagle, winner of more than 40 blue ties.

First dam by Star Eagle, son of Cabbell's Lexington; and dam by Hamlet Denmark, son of Washington Denmark; 3rd dam by Harris' Denmark, son of Miller's Denmark.

Eagle Bird will stand the season of 1894, at my farm two miles West of Stanford, on the Shelby City pike.

At $20 to insure a Living Colt.

Money or cash note will be required when the fact is ascertained.

Eagle Bird is one of the grandest show horses in Kentucky. Monie Crisio, his uncle, is the only horse shown in the Blue Grass Circuit that he did not defeat. He could be relied upon to make a gallant show whenever called upon and always finished as game as a race horse, although some of the "knowing ones" pronounced him no good. As a breeder of fine, high-styled, good colored colts, he is not surpassed by any horse in Kentucky.

Mares from a distance will be furnished grass after May 1st at $1.50 per month, and must be paid at the removal of mares. Care taken to prevent accidents and escapes, but not responsible should any occur.

Parting with or removal of mares forfeits the insurance.

Will also stand a fine mule Jack at $7 to insure a living colt.

NYE IN NEW ENGLAND

THE CLIMATE DIFFERS SOMEWHAT FROM THAT OF NORTH CAROLINA.

What a Young Doctor Has to Say on the Subject—Mr. Lolless Experiments With Chickens—Men Who Rise Suddenly—The Question of Propinquity.

(Copyright, 1894, by Edgar W. Nye.) IN NEW ENGLAND FOR A FEW WEEKS.

The winter has certainly been tempered to the hilt up to this writing, and the unemployed have escaped what would have been a winter like that of last year a season of suffering and even death.

I met a young doctor yesterday in Rhode Island who told me that he once started in to practice medicine in North Carolina at Ducktown or somewhere on the Murphy Branch.

"How did you like it?" I asked, wishing to appear interested.

"Well, I soon worried of it," he replied dreamily. "It is a beautiful country there, and the air is like a healing balm the year round, but the masses who live along the Murphy Branch and the Ducktown road give me a keen, darting pain in the neck. I practiced there among the copperas clouted yeomanry till they had swallowed three chemical thermometers on me, and then I thought it was time to move. My practice here is small, but my lady patients do not die here with their sunbonnets on."

I give that just to show the strong prejudice which exists between the dyed in the wool Yankee and the hol polloi of Ducktown and the Murphy Branch, near where I live. Of course we have our peculiarities, but why should we be misjudged on that account?
My neighbor, Mr. Lolless, who runs the Arden Park hotel, says that he bought chickens all summer at 15 cents apiece for broilers, and that they were almost uniformly stolen for him at night and sold to him at 10 cents in the morning. Those people don't mean anything by that. They do not do it to make you feel badly, but just because they do not see any other way of obtaining an honest livelihood.

Last week I discovered that my railroad ticket on the New York, New Haven and Hartford road read "Good either way." This surprised me because I had not been used to that, and, in fact, I had to, years ago, walk over 52 miles in order to ride back on a ticket which I bought of a scalper, and which ran in the wrong direction, I found after it was too late.

Inquiring about this matter, I learned that years ago a quiet gentleman of medium height riding from Bridgeport to Providence produced his ticket and was told by the conductor that it would not work in that direction. The quiet gentleman of medium height said that, if not, the question should be settled at the earliest moment. He was not noisy or belligerent, but they removed him from the car by main force, breaking an arm and injuring him considerably. Holding his valise in one hand and his stomach in the other, he went to an attorney and counselor at law practicing in all the courts, conveying done and depositions taken while you wait.

Relating the circumstance to him, the quiet gentleman gave the case into his hands, and then hailing a shutter that was going by he started for the hospital. He slowly gained strength, but never fully recovered. The case was lost over and over again in the lower courts and hung on for years. The poor crippled gentleman of medium height clung to his case, however, and demanded his $100,000, even though he had to borrow money to pay his lawyers.

Time passed on, and he grew feeble, for the chasm in his midst refused to unite and retain even his broadest principles, but at last the supreme court of the United States, which was not at that time waiting for two selfish New Yorkers to fill a vacancy, took up the case, and one day when the great autumnal alchemy of God had turned the forests and the sky to billows of gold and bronze the weary, worn and plucky gentleman got his verdict and his money, and so today you and I, fellow citizens, owing to the grit and heroism of that shattered man, may ride either way on the same ticket without being disemboweled among total strangers and while there are ladies present.

We were talking together the other day, Mr. William Hawley Smith and I, regarding the habits of men who rise to sudden wealth, and who are not prepared for it either by birth or breeding. The country is full of them, and though they get along very well for a few hours without corking themselves they cannot hold out very long without announcing themselves.

He was telling about a St. Louis man who had risen to wealth on the traffic in hides, pelts, tallow and dressed pork. This man was asked what was the meaning of the phrase E pluribus unum, and company being present and the inquiring child very determined he was obliged to say that the Greek expression E pluribus unum meant that "the tail goes with the hide."

I visited a self made millionaire once who made his money by stealing sawlogs from the United States while the United States was looking at a dog fight or something. I ought not perhaps to refer to the matter now, for the poor man died a few years ago worth $18,000,000 and had to march up to the great bar of judgment in nothing but a goatse and a strawberry mark, but it might be of use to boys and young people who may read this to know that when I dined with that wealthy man he forgot himself after the carving was done and ate with the carving knife and fork, especially with the knife. Of course he is now on the other shore, where I hope that the carving is already done, but who would have thought it possible that a man with the wealth of an emperor would have fed himself and injured his tonsils for years with the carving knife?

Boys, remember this and send for my great work on "Etiquette; or, How to Avoid Dangerous Stab Wounds While Eating Pie."

While I am speaking a word to the boys, I might tell them of a little incident that occurred at Harvard last Halloween. The Harvard boys are not such bad boys as some, but are full of animal spirits and one thing or another, all seeking expression in a harmless way.

As Halloween approached, these boys tried to think of some way by which they could surprise and delight the police. Boys love to interest the police everywhere, I think, and it is very sad to know that in many instances the police are not only cold toward the boys, but in some cases even repulsive.

The boys finally went to a barber about 10 o'clock, as he was closing up the shop, and asked him what he would take for his barber pole sign. He thought a minute and then said $25. "All right," said the boys, "write out a receipt."

Then with the pole and the receipt they started out over town. Of course they were arrested. "I'll take you young devils to go putting barber poles in the cemetery over the graves of the pilgrim fathers and sidebar boggies on top the main house! Come on wild men!" said an American policeman. So they went with him, carrying the pole and stinging joyfully a little song called "Daisy Bell." They produced their receipt at the station, gave the Irishman the great, big, coarse laugh and started out once more to land another policeman. All night they harassed the police and in the morning sold the pole back for $20. When the police read this, they will know that the United States and Great Britain have been let into the secret on the promise not to let it go any further.

I am pleased to notice that her most gracious majesty Queen Victoria, empress of India by the grace of God and political influence, is discussing the question of "Whether propinquity or cool, sober judgment brings about the most marriages in the world."

Though rather late in the day, I have been asked by a correspondent recently to place myself on record on this question, and I rise to remark that it is rather a hefty question, especially to a man who is not quite sure what propinquity means.

However, if propinquity be a sort of juxtaposition, I would say that it no doubt has a good deal to do with many emotional marriages, especially among the more barbarous tribes; but, on the other hand, in England, where so many extinct nobles marry American girls who bud on the same branch beside the leafy lard which gave vitality and wealth to the parent stem, I think that propinquity has little to do with marriage, spontaneity being the great motive on the one hand and love for purple but strumous blood on the other. The true English humor found in the blood of the nobility is the kind that calls loudly for 150 doses of sarsaparilla for $1.

But shall we say that cool calculation has much to do with the true and happy marriage? No, your majesty, I throw not.

True love must be more or less associated with youth, and youth is not cool or calculating. Did your majesty pause to consider in your sweet girlhood the great international questions which your marriage with Albert might raise? I do not believe that you did—I hope not, at least.

Looking over my own experience and those of some of my acquaintances, I would exclaim, "Blessed be propinquity!" To those who have been denied the joyful propinquity of a sleigh ride on a frosty evening, when health and high purposes bound through every artery and a sweet presence sits adjoining you, death can have no terrors.

Your majesty perhaps has never started out on a cold starlit evening with no one in the sleigh but a very dear gentleman friend, then a gentle horse, a lonesome road through the stately and now communicative trees, a little propinquity and one muff between you. Ah, who shall say that even a crowned head might not incline a few degrees toward the shoulder of a truly noble being, and who shall say that the noble being would murmur if the royal diadems and ruby prongs and things of the crown jabbed him ever and anon under the ear?

Cool calculation comes with later years and is confined more to widowers who dye their whiskers and raise asparagus on the graves of their former wives, your majesty. Love, so they tell me, comes with the thrill of a voice or the touch of a hand, not by cablegram or messenger boy, your most gracious majesty, though I will admit that the blown out squib of a noble family, the wet fizzle of a vicious and blasted life, may bring its ashes and unholy scars to the altar with a degree of self possession and calm that would astonish the trembling groom of 25 who has to get married and hurry back to do the chores on the farm. But the latter is more apt to arouse a pleasing interest among the angels.

I believe that your most gracious majesty, queen of Great Britain and Ireland and empress of India dia gracia, will admit that most of the marriages which come of a frapped judgment and cool deliberation increase the fuel bill for the lake which burneth with fire.

Propinquity tempered by good early training is a great institution, and there is growing up here in America, your majesty, a girl whom we call "a good feller," who is a better comrade, a wiser partner, a sweeter counselor and a more level headed guide, philosopher and friend than the best man on top of sod. To associate with her is to get a few notches higher socially than one was before. It means a post graduate course in a few branches of education which the man about town thinks he knows, but does not.

Your majesty will forgive me, I know, for addressing one of the regina type in this unfettered manner regarding a great question that it is my only way of expression. A child of nature as I am and brought up by hand, deprived of a mother's care while yet at the age of 89 years, I speak to you in that crude style of eloquence peculiar to the Pluties, with whom I lived for many years, or until the tribe got to wearing cavalry pantaloons to tea. Then I left them and went to live in New York city.

I can only add that a more frank and honest propinquity in England would be a good thing. It would advance the common cause of humanity and give the judges of the criminal court more time to go fishing.

Bill Nye

Too Much.
Charles Lamb was once invited by an old friend to meet an author who had just published a volume of poems. When he arrived, being somewhat early, he was asked by his host to look over the volume of the expected visitor. A few minutes convinced Lamb that it possessed little merit, being a feeble echo of different authors.

This opinion was fully confirmed by the appearance of the gentleman himself, whose self conceit and confidence in his own book were so manifest as to awaken in Lamb his spirit of mischievous waggonery. His tenuous memory enabled him during the dinner to quote fluently several passages from the pretender's volume, with the introduction, "This reminds me of some verses I wrote when I was very young."

When this had happened several times, the real author of the lines quoted looked ready to burst with suppressed indignation. At last, as a climax to the fun, Lamb coolly quoted the well known opening lines to "Paradise Lost," as written by himself.

This was too much for the verse-monger. He immediately rose and with an impressive solemnity of manner addressed the claimant to so many poetical honors.

"Sir," he said, "I have tamely submitted all this evening to hear you claim the merit that may belong to any little poems of my own—this I have borne in silence—but, sir, I never will sit quietly by and see the immortal Milton robbed of 'Paradise Lost!'—Youth's Companion.

Dark.

There is a singular story told of the year's production of pictures by the artists of Paris, doubtless by way of satire, of the way in which certain painters pull the wool over the eyes of the public.

One artist, it is said, has covered a canvas with nothing whatever but a thick cloud of black paint, in which nothing whatever is distinguishable, and he proposes to exhibit the canvas under this title:

"Night Attack of Negroes On Our Black Troops In Dahomey!"—Exchange.

He Was All Right.

Small Boy (as grocer pours molasses into jug on cold morning)—Here mister, you haven't got all the molasses out of that measure!

Grocer—That's all right, sonny; there was some in the measure before.—Newport News.

Not What He Meant.

Family Doctor (to squire)—Thanks for you check, squire. But, my dear sir, it is far too much—far in excess of what I should have charged. I can only hope I shall have an opportunity of working it off.—Punch.

Very Pleasant.

School Inspector—Can any of you boys remember a pleasant winter in recent years?

Chorus—Yes, in 1890. Our teacher was sick nearly all the time.—Halo.

The Best of All.

She—They say my sister has a prettier figure than I. But (sure of her answer) whose figure do you like best, Jack, dear?

He (fervently)—Your father's, darling.—Brooklyn Life.

BUILDING A SILO.

A Valuable Investment For Farmers and Live Stock Men.

The wooden silo is now esteemed the best one; also the round shaped one, as it leaves no corners for the ensilage to spoil in. Connect the silo with the stable where your stock is. An average of 40 pounds is what a cow eats of silage daily. A horse wants 20 pounds, a sheep 14 to 15 pounds. Estimating the time when the cow eats ensilage at 150 days, she will need three tons a year. For holding this a space of 200 cubic feet is required. If drains are not needed, dig a circular ditch a foot across and a foot deep. Fill it with small stones. On top of it put a wall a foot high made of brick or stones laid in mortar. This wall should be 10 inches thick. Fig. 1 shows a section of the foundation wall, floor and sides of a round silo.

Your foundation wall is now finished. For the wooden walls above this you want a row of studding, of course, with an outside coating of boards. Within the outside coating of boards hang heavy tar paper all around. Then over the tar paper put another lining of closely fitted boards. Coat tar boiled with asphalt and thinned with gasoline, the mixture put on with a paintbrush, makes a good coating for the inside lining. Inside the foundation ring the loose soil should be thrown out, the space thoroughly leveled off, filled with small stones and covered with well tramped clay. The floor is usually cemented with concrete. The illustrations show a round silo as described in the Wisconsin experiment station bulletin No. 28. The bulletin says:

"Fig. 1 shows the construction of all wood round silos. Silos, 2 by 4, cut in sections on a radius of the silo circle, bedded in mortar and toenailed together; plates the same, spike to tops of studding; studding, 2 by 4, one foot apart—short lengths may be used lapped, to get the depth. Sixteens and fourteens will give a silo 80 feet deep, lining made from fencing ripped in two, outside sheeting the same, siding for silos under 28 feet, outside diameter, common siding rabbeted; for silos more than 28 feet outside diameter, common drop siding or ship lap may be used. A shows ventilator between studding, auger holes are bored at bottom between studding and the boards lack two inches of reaching plate at top inside. Both sets of openings are covered with wire cloth to keep out vermin. There should be a line of feeding doors from top to bottom, each 2 or 3 feet by 5 feet and about 2 1/2 feet apart."

Describing the foundation the bulletin says:

"Fig. 2 shows method of laying and leveling foundation of a round silo and a round silo with a single partition. A, center post, with top level with top of proposed wall; B, straight edge boards nailed to stakes driven in ground; C, straight edge fixed to turn on a pin at A; B, B are all nailed level with top of post A; D, partition in round silo. It may be placed so as to come in the middle of the single line of doors, letting the same doors answer for both sides."

Fig. 3 shows method of roofing round silos and the manner of connecting them with a barn. A shows where air is admitted between the studding to ventilate behind the lining; B, the feeding chute; C, filling window. The cupola is essential for perfect ventilation.

CLOVER HAY FOR HORSES.

A Breeder Who Likes It Better Than Timothy.

It is true that I do feed clover hay to my horses. I would never raise a spire of timothy hay on my farm except to sell. I would rather have two tons of clover hay for my horses than three tons of timothy. Still it is undoubtedly true that the improper use of clover hay is more likely to cause heaves than the use of timothy. I say the improper use—the abuse rather.

The chief value of the horse is in his strong muscles and powers of endurance, and these come from those foods rich in the albuminoids, as it is well known that these only furnish the material for muscular growth. Clover hay is rich in these elements, and hence its high value as horse food. The reason why clover hay, when fed in unlimited quantities to the driving horse, produces the injury is no fault of the clover, but because of its superior excellence. When the horse is allowed to eat his fill, the clover is so palatable that he will gorge himself, even when having an abundance of oats or other grain, and if driven fast or worked too hard while the stomach is overloaded he is in great danger of being made wind broken. The remedy, or rather preventive, is to give the horse no more hay than it should have, and when this is eaten let it stand without or give it some straw to pick over and keep busy. When fed in this way, no other forage is equal to it. Horses not at work and growing colts will keep in a thrifty condition on no other food than clover hay.

Of course no set rules can be laid down for the cutting of clover and making of hay, owing to the great variability of the seasons, but the following is my method as nearly as I can follow it: Since we have had the midge I am very careful not to be deceived and let it get too much advanced. As the midge eats the bloom so that it does not show, there is great danger of this. I prefer to cut it just as the field is filled with the red plumes and before there is a single brown head. I consider this the best stage of growth, but as I cannot cut the whole of my clover in a single day or week I prefer to cut some before it arrives at this stage rather than let too much of it get so ripe as to be woody and thus lose much of its digestibility and feeding value.

If I have help enough to get it in so that I can keep the machine running, I would begin to cut as soon as the dew is off and cut until night. I would then put into large cocks each night as much as was fairly wilted and let these stand from one, to three days or until sufficiently cured so that it might be drawn directly to the mow from the cock. If the day were not quite bright enough for that, it might be drawn after the cocks had been slightly opened.

If my help were limited, I would cut from the time dew was off until 1 p. m. and then put into cocks and draw as before mentioned. It may be cut after dinner, turned over with the tedder or horse rake just at night before the dew has fallen and be got into the mow the next day and make bright, sweet hay. In fact, this will give greener hay than to cure in cocks, but the latter will be more like the English hay, than which I have never seen better. The chief thing to be looked after in making clover hay is to have the mows tight, the nearer airtight the better, and then get the hay into them without external moisture. It is not the juice of the plant that causes the hay to become musty and dusty, but the dew or rain which goes into the mow with it. Hay perfectly dry outside may be put in quite green without fear.—J. S. Woodward in Rural New Yorker.

Pig Feeding.

Professor Shaw of the Canadian station says: "While pigs for 123 days on a suitable meal ration and housed in summer increase in weight at a rate of 24 per cent, pigs fed on two-thirds the quantity of the same meal ration, the balance of the food being made up of green fodder, cut and mixed with the meal, increase at a rate of 50 per cent, and pigs fed on one-third the quantity of the same meal, the balance of the food being made up of green fodder, cut and mixed with the meal, increase at a rate of only 13.37 per cent, the labor of feeding being also relatively greater where green fodder is given."

Live Stock Points.

Usually when the announcement travels through the world that this country is free from pleuropneumonia a suspected case of it breaks out in some quarter. For a year past the entire country has been free from it, which is cause for rejoicing. It is now said, however, that this dread plague has appeared in Chester county, Pa. The only thing to do is to quarantine rigidly against it in the neighborhood in which its existence is suspected and to look out for it in all other parts of the country when it is said to exist in any one district. The law provides that the owners of infected cattle shall be reimbursed for their loss if they are killed immediately. Suspected cattle should be slaughtered without an hour's delay and their bodies cremated. Only burning will destroy the poisonous germs.

At the New York poultry and pigeon show the entries were 8,000, the largest number ever made. One lady, Miss Fanny Brooks of West Hartford, Mass., entered a number of Indian games.

Japan is the most miserably provided with horses of any civilized nation. She has not enough decent animals to mount her cavalry. Perhaps American horse breeders on the Pacific slope might supply the need to mutual advantage.

Mrs. F. M. Wheeler of Geneva entered for the New York poultry show one yard of fowls valued at $1,300.

Whatever kind of stock you have to sell, watch the city markets as quoted in the newspapers. Take no man's word who wants to buy.

OX WARBLE.

What Causes Those Lumps Under the Skin of Cattle.

It is somewhat singular that notwithstanding the prevalence of warbles in all parts of the country during the hundred years or more that Americans have been engaged in growing cattle the life history of the pest has never been cleared up until the past year. It has been supposed to be identical with the bot fly of Europe, but recent investigations show that this is a mistake.

The subject has been followed out by Dr. Cooper Currier, formerly of the bureau of animal industry, who has proved conclusively that the larva of the ox warble do not penetrate through the skin at the points where the eggs are laid, but are licked from the hair into the mouth, from whence they penetrate the walls of the esophagus, or gullet, and then work through the subcutaneous or the under-skin tissue of the animal and subsequently become encysted at the point under the skin through which they eventually bore and from which they finally emerge. The eggs are laid indiscriminately on the flanks, legs and tail of the animal.

The egg laying season is coincident with the shedding season, when the cattle have the habit of licking themselves, thus taking a good deal of hair into the mouth and stomach as well. The larva is ready to hatch when the egg is laid and does so by virtue of the warmth of the mouth. The newly hatched larva is provided with a number of spinous points, or hooks, which penetrate the walls of the gullet. It then molts, loses the spinous and becomes entirely smooth, with the exception of some very minute spinous around the anal portion. Its skin is underlaid with strong muscular bands, fitting it for pushing its way through the tissue under the skin, traveling for nine or ten months, until it reaches a favorable point on the back, where it molts again, assuming the familiar appearance of the matured larva, become encysted by virtue of the inflammation of the tissue, and from this inflammation and from its own growth forms a decided lump under the skin. After another molt the skin of the animal is penetrated, and eventually the larva issues from this hole, falls to the ground and enters the pupal state, which lasts a few weeks, when the perfect fly emerges.

The above is a condensed statement of the conclusions of Dr. Currier, the full detailed account of which has been published in volume 4 of "Insect Life," an extra edition of which has been struck off for distribution among stock raisers.—Wisconsin Farmer.

Adulterating Ground Feed.

A law designed to benefit farmers who buy grain and feed has just gone into operation in England. Under this law all dealers who offer mixtures of ground feed for sale are obliged to give a guaranteed statement showing what the mixture is made of, what grains or seeds are used in it and what it analyzes. We need just such a law in many states in this country. We have before now referred to the trick some dealers have of mixing oat hulls with corn bran and selling the mixture for ground corn and oats. Dr. Kelzio of Michigan recently investigated this fraud and received this candid note from a grain dealer:

"No use to give the names of millers, as nearly every feed mill in the country is in the habit of using them—oat hulls—or other cheap articles for grinding. Don't know as you could now call it a fraud, as it is generally known that such stock is used, and purchasers buying cheap grades of feed know what it is made from, as the prices give it away. Any further information required on your part will be gladly furnished if possible, but remember that I am getting bread and butter out of oat hulls."

This man is stealing his bread and butter if he gets it in this way! There is no place for a thief outside of jail, whether he take money out of your pocket directly with his fingers or with oat hulls for gloves.—Rural New Yorker.

Mr. John Dryden of Toronto, a member of parliament, is president of the American Shropshire association, which takes in both the United States and Canada.

This year will be characterized by the large number of American trotters sent abroad. They are growing in favor in Europe. No other horses can trot equal to them. Besides that the price of them is so low at home that it begins to pay to send them over the water.

Eggs from hens that are kept apart from males stay fresh three or four times as long as those where the cocks and hens run together. A fertilized egg is a live egg, and the life germ in it dies and decays unless it is incubated to maturity, thus causing the whole egg substance to decay.

The Maryland experiment station thinks it has discovered that the fodder from an acre of corn contains more nutritious matter than the corn itself, and that the corn and fodder bring the best results when fed together.

A western feeder says his experience goes to show that when an animal gets one good meal a day of bright shuck corn it will thrive very well the rest of the day on straw, swamp hay or any other cheap, coarse fodder.

A class for instruction in horse dentistry has been opened in New York city. The occupation of veterinary dentist is one now beginning to be generally recognized. A good field of employment is here offered. More horses have trouble from imperfect teeth than their owners have any idea of. In several cases on record remedying defects in their teeth has increased the speed of race track stars.

If the string iron is to be applied anywhere to a horse, his bowels should be in a relaxed condition first.

Dress Goods.

Of course every one must have a wool dress, and they are surprisingly cheap now. We are showing fifteen styles of all wool novelty mixtures, 36 inches wide, at 39c. Ten styles handsome, pure silk and wool novelties, 40 inches wide, at 50c. Then we have Serges, Henriettas, and other staple Dress Goods weaves in all qualities. Novelties in silk and wool mixtures, Crepons, Checks, Brocades and Grenadines from 75c to $4.50 per yard. Indications are that mixtures will have a decided run in preference to solid colors.

Black Goods.

We are showing some beautiful new styles of Crepons, plain and embroidered, suitable for mourning. Also quantities of staple black goods and a great many new gray and black and white goods.

Silks.

Will undoubtedly be more used than for years past. You will see many decided changes from last season's styles. For dressy dresses the much used Chinas have given place to Taffetas of years ago. These come in dainty patterns and exquisite colors. We have bought largely of these, as we have great confidence in their sale. China silks will be extensively worn for comfortable and always neat appearing street dresses. We have these in great variety and have many specially good values to offer at 25c, 40c, 50c and 69c per yard. Some of these are just one-half last year's prices. We have some choice patterns black Grenadines at 85c and $1. New brocaded and Satin Stripe Satins and Taffetas for dresses. New black Satins, Armure, Moires, Chinas, &c. A great lot of wash silks and other silks suitable for shirt-waists and for children's wear.

Dress Trimmings.

All the newest ideas. Point Venise Laces and bands—a show case full—from 40c to $2.50 yard. Jet Bands, Jet Ruffles, Jet Edges and all over Jet. Black Laces and Bands. Black and colored Moire Silks, Satins, &c.

Wash Goods

In bewildering variety. Gingham by the case at 10c, 12½c and 20c, fully 50 per cent. better value than last year. Penangs at 10c and 11½c. Outing Cloths 8½c and 12½c. Printed Dimities at 12½c, 15c and 30c. Dainty French organdies in 25 styles. Galatea Cloths in twelve styles. Irish Lawns 10c. Printed P. K. Welts at 15c, worth 25c. Fifteen styles Swivel Silks at 50c yard.

Miss LOTTIE DILLON, a bewitching brunette from Crab Orchard, has been visiting Miss Mary Dudderar.

Mrs. AMERICA RICE, Mrs. Will Corlier and Mrs. Charley Hewitt are visiting Mrs. Louis Huesung in Somerset.

Mr. A. T. NUNNELLEY, as fat and as jolly as ever, is off of the road for a few days and spending them with his mother here.

Miss FORTIE COURTS is back from an extended stay in Cincinnati, where she bought an endless variety of spring millinery.

Mrs. CLEO W. J. BROWN, of Mt. Vernon, was on yesterday's train en route to Louisville and Indianapolis to buy spring millinery.

Miss BETTIE THURMOND, who has been to see her sister, Mrs. J. S. May, at Somerset, returned yesterday and reports her much better.

Mr. A. H. CENNINGHAM, the cleverest drummer on the road, was here this week in the interest of the Chatfield & Woods paper house.

Mr. MAX SALINGER, of Louisville, was up this week encouraging the boys in his store, who are always kept hustling to wait on the trade.

Miss MOLLIE BROOKS, who has been on a visit to her brother, J. W. Brooks, at St. Louis, since before Christmas, returned yesterday to Crab Orchard.

The Louisville Times says Hon. Harvey Helm a high compliment and says he will be a candidate for re-election. Mr. Helm's constituents are proud of the record he has made at Frankfort.

A young lady left Tuesday to go to the city to purchase her trousseau; at least that is what she told us. Her name is in this column. Find it and send $2 to this office for your subscription.

We are glad to note considerable improvement in the condition of Miss Annie Alcorn. She showed some signs of returning appetite yesterday and her general appearance inspired increased hope of her early recovery.

ARE THERE COL. JIM.—The result of the local option election in Crab Orchard, was heard of with disgust by one distinguished ex-citizen of the Salt City. He remarked that the town was just being ruined by peace-meal.—Advocate.

AFTER the prohibition excitement is over and those who have any shall have returned to their senses, we want to inaugurate a crusade against an evil almost as great as that of rum selling and drinking. We refer to the sin of failure to pay honest debts and a disregard of the Scriptural injunction to "owe no man anything." It is the great and growing curse of the land. A man who can pay his debts and won't do it is no better than a thief and the penitentiary is his proper place. Our rule of faith and practice is to inquire, "Is he honest, does he pay his honest debts?" If he passes this examination properly we have more respect for him than for half a dozen sniveling so-called Christians, who wear the livery of Heaven, the better to take in their fellow man and get his goods for nothing. How many of those who preach prohibition practice it, and how many who wear a holier than thou expression on their countenance can plead not guilty to the charge that he is a thief at heart?

It will be of interest to both sides to know when the various liquor licenses expire. Those of F. W. Green at Stanford and McKinney expired this week as did Mr. Joe Coffey's. Those of Mrs. Martha L. Harris, Crab Orchard, Weatherford & Brown, Hustonville, and D. A. Twaddle and T. L. Shelton, Rowland, are out April 10th. Jonathan Russell, Hustonville, April 14th, Carpenter & Dalton, Stanford, May 8th, Mrs. Mary C. Vanlerpool, Crab Orchard, May 18th and Mrs. Bettie C. Pennybacker, Kingsville, Nov. 27th. Should local option carry Mrs. Pennybacker will have to increase the number of her bar keepers for Kingsville will be the Mecca of those who like to look upon the wine while it is red.

THE NEW RAILROAD.—Mr. A. R. Penny went to Cincinnati this week to see Mr. H. D. Emerson, of the Green River railroad, with reference to extending it from Kingsville here. He was shown the profile of it made by Mr. Emerson's corps of engineers and the route seems a very practical one and easy of construction. The proposition is that Stanford and other people interested raise $10,000, stock to be given on all subscriptions of over $100; under that amount to be donations, the money not to be due and payable till the road is built. Nothing could be fairer than this, and considering the advantages that would accrue to Stanford and the county generally, we are sure the amount can be easily raised. In addition to getting the road, Mr. Emerson promises the location here of at least three manufacturing plants, which will give employment to 300 men or more, provided the town will give the usual exemption of taxes and donate sites. The chances for the road seem to be very favorable, and when Mr. Emerson returns from St. Louis and submits a proposition in writing, as he promises to do, subscription papers will be started at once to raise the necessary $10,000.

THE CITY COUNCIL very arbitrarily refused to grant P. W. Green a continuance of license and his saloon and that of Joseph Coffey, whose license expired at the same time, has been closed. If this snuff off the whisky business entirely in Stanford, there might be more excuse for acting so precipitately on a question before the people have been given a chance to pass on it. Col. Welch appeared before the board in behalf of Mr. Green and insisted that as it had not been elected on the issue of local option, that it was nothing but right and justice that the present order of things remain as it is until the people could express themselves on the subject. He showed that $1,000 for licenses having been counted in making up the estimates for the year, there would be a deficit to that amount and consequently no street improvements of any kind could be made for a year at least, and then the constitutional limit of 75 cents on the $100 would be insufficient to pay the expenses of the town. He asked that the board take a liberal, common sense view of the matter and not be governed in their action by cranky ideas or by the orders of pet preachers, but vote in the interest of all the people. This brought Councilman J. K. Vanarsdale to his feet and he informed the Council that he was there to represent himself and not to be dictated to. Col. Welch was glad to obtain such an admission and said so in such an aggravating way, that the doctor's wrath was further kindled. Mayor Hocker requested him to set down till Col. Welch was through, but the doctor refused to do so even after a preemptory order was made. The Mayor thereupon directed a fine of $2 to be entered against him, and the doctor took his seat. The Council's speech failed of the desired effect upon the Council, which immediately took a vote and decided as above stated.
